FROM THE PORT FOLIO.

MAJOR ANDRE.

SMITH'S NARRATIVE.

The capture of Major ANDRE, Adjutant General of the British forces, was an event so important in the American revolution, and his fate was so generally deplored and lamented, even by his enemies, that every account of the transaction which led to it, must be interesting. The following notice of a new work on this subject, which we extract from a late British Review, will, therefore, be read with interest, making proper allowances, for the opinions, prejudices and situation of Mr. Smith:

"An authentic Narrative of the causes which led to the death of Major ANDRE, Adjutant General of His Britannic Majesty's forces, in North America.—By Joshua H. Smith, Esq."

The author of this narrative was supposed by the Americans to have been an agent of Gen. Arnold, and upon the apprehension of Major Andre, and the escape of Arnold, was arrested and tried on a charge of high treason. Circumstances, no doubt, were very strongly against him—but, if we credit this relation, and we can see no reason for disputing the author's veracity, he was very innocently engaged in the communications between Andre and the American general. Of this trial, and his defence, Mr. Smith, gives a full and particular account; as well as of his escape from America, which was attended with many very interesting circumstances. As soon as it was discovered he had broke prison, the most diligent search was made to discover him.

"Parties," says the author, "were sent in four different directions from the four roads that led from the jail; but on their return without success, it was concluded I must be secreted in the town, among the king's friends, who were by far the most numerous and respectable of the inhabitants. On the evening of the 3d day, before my good protectress had any hint of the measure, a young lady came hastily to her, and informed her that a few hours ago her father's house had been searched, and she heard the party say, they should next take the road where my good friend lived. She instantly came to me with the intelligence and advised my leaving the place where I was, for another more secure, which was a hollow between two stacks of chimnies. This I did not approve of, as the place had a suspicious appearance, and seemed to me calculated for a hiding place. I therefore observed that as it was near evening, I would go out to the woods, and return when dark. I had scarcely mentioned my resolution, when the lady came to her and said the guards were very near the house; when instantly snatching up one of the blankets, I stept lightly down the stairs, she following with the other blanket. We heard the tramp of a number of steps in the piazza; I immediately made to the back door, and crept under a small hen coop; she hastily threw her blanket over it, and turning round, met the party coming in at the front door. My protectress being a suspected person, from the reasons I have already mentioned, her house was searched with great care; & the young lady afterwards informed me, that in the very hole where she wished me to secret myself, they thrust their bayonets and pikes into; so that had I been there, I must, inevitably, have been put to death! The house being thoroughly searched, they proceeded to the barn, stables and even the pigsty; and, passing the hen coop, under which I was concealed, they were about to take off the blanket, when my protectress exclaimed, "for God's sake do not hurt my poor chicken's;" on which they went into the house, and I could hear them distinctly charge her with knowing where I was. Alarmed, lest her fears might overcome her fortitude, I immediately crept out, and made the best of my way to an adjoining wood, under the cover of darkness, which had commenced.

"Having reached the wood I was involved in doubt, what course to take; to go back did not seem prudent, as on my return, some soldiers might be left as a guard. It now began to rain, and fortunately a large hollow tree, afforded me a shelter from its rage. A variety of conflicting passions agitated my mind; for that very night a person was to come and bring me clothing, and take me part of my way to N. York, upwards of 80 miles. To omit profiting by this chance, I knew would be imprudent; and the person I had expected had promised to assist me, and possessed my most unlimited confidence. At length it occurred to me that the lady, from whose house I had just escaped, had a relation about 5 miles distant. I knew him to be a kind, friendly man, to whom I could commit myself with safety. Thither, therefore, I determined to proceed; and when in the main road, I thought I could easily reach his house. I travelled all night; it rained during the whole time; and my feet being tender, from the distressing and unusual state in which I was placed, I made but little progress, especially along slaty and rocky country.—When I had walked a considerable distance, I halted, intending to wait for the dawn of day; thus advancing slowly, seated myself on a rock, cold, faint, fatigued and lacerated with briars, and passed my time in lamenting the hard fate which my civility to a stranger had entailed upon me.

"On th approach of day I saw something like a house, and the appearance of light; I advanced towards it. The reader will here again form some faint idea of my sensations, when I found the spot was near the gibbet, and the house I had discerned, the jail, whence I had escaped in the dark. I had lost my road, and in my bewildered state of mind, had he whole night been wandering back again, over the same ground!! Afflicted, and almost exhausted, I had no other alternative than to return to the place whence I had last escaped, and now gave up all for lost! It was, however, fortunate that I had not far to go, the daylight rapidly advanced; and I omitted no time in regaining the good woman's house, having the main road before me; and being equally fortunate in not meeting a single traveller, or my forlorn appearance must have attracted notice, and perhaps have led to a discovery

"I observed, on my approach, that there was light in the house, and once more assuming courage, and fortified by hope, I ventured to tap gently at the window, whence the light appeared, & in a minute the door was opened for my reception. My female friend informed me that the party who had been there the preceding day, were not satisfied with the first search, but insisted on making another by candle light, which they did, and even commanded her to open every closet, chest and trunk, declaring their authority to confine her unless she declared where I was; and that one of them even went again to the chicken coop, under which I had been concealed, and thrust his bayonet into various parts of it. She said it was well I overheard the conversation, and resolved to withdraw; and she consoled me by saying I now had nothing to fear, as they had gone away perfectly satisfied. I mentioned my attempt to reach the residence of her relation for shelter, and I had the pleasure to learn that there I should have been safe. But it was providential that I missed my way, for a large party of continental troops were encamped not far from his house, and I must have passed them before I could arrive at it.

"Combining all these circumstances, which appeared so providential, I was led, independent of the fatigue I had just passed thro' to take some rest in my former birth, with renewed ground to encourage hope.

"My friend had promised to be with me the following night, but when that came I was sorely disappointed. Thro' a chink in the place of my retreat, I could see the members of the court, judge, jury and all, pass and repass; and indeed, I was in dread every moment of being discovered, and bro't back to my old quarters. In this situation, I continued, however, 5 days, under the most painful apprehensions.

"However opinions may vary as to the justice of Gen. Washington, in executing Major ANDRE, as a spy, the public will peruse with strong interest, a narrative of the causes which led to his death, from the pen of the gentleman, who was commissioned to conduct the unfortunate ANDRE from the Vulture, (British vessel of war then laying off N York) to the interview, which he had with Gen. Arnold, at Mr. Smith's house. The two officers were alone the greater part of the day. Towards the evening Arnold came to my house, and proposed that I should convey Mr. Anderson back to the Vulture, which had nearly regained her former situation; he saw however, from the state of sickness under which I then labored, with a fit of the ague upon me, that I was unable to gratify him; on which he proposed my accompanying him part of the way on his return to New York, by land as soon as my health would allow on the removal of the ague fit; to which I made no objection, as when better, it would be in my way to visit and bring home my family from Fish Kill, being obliged to cross the river for that purpose. He soon after returned, and told me a difficulty had occurred, of which he was not before apprised; for that Anderson had come on shore in a military dress, which he had borrowed, from pride or vanity, from an officer of his acquaintance at N. York; that as it would be impossible for him to travel in that uniform, he requested the loan of my coat. Being nearly of size, I lent him a coat; the other part of his dress, he said did not require change. General Arnold then proposed returning to his command at West Point, leaving Mr. Anderson very disconsolate with me. I endeavored to amuse him by shewing him the prospect from the upper part of my house, whence there was an extensive view over the capacious bay of Haverstraw, to the opposite shore; he cast an anxious look towards the Vulture, and with a heavy sigh wished he was on board. I endeavored to console him by the hope of his being at the White Plains or New-York before her. Finding himself better, I promised to accompany him on his way. I could not help remarking to him, that I thought the general might have ordered a flag of truce from Stony Point, to have returned him to the Vulture, without the fatigue of going to the White Plains, that appearing a circuitous route, unless he had business to transact at that place.—From this time he seemed shy, and desirous to avoid much conversation; he continued to urge preparations for his departure, and carefully avoided being seen by persons that came to the house.

From the New-York Evening Post.

The following interesting letter is from a gentlemen who resided thirteen months in the island of Elba, the present residence of Bonaparte, which is here so happily described.

"Dear Sir—You request me to give some account of Elba. This island is situated on the coast of Italy, 60 miles to the southward of Leghorn, 5 miles from the main land. It is about 20 miles long and 7 broad. There are four considerable towns in it, and it contains about 15,000 inhabitants. It is very mountainous, particularly towards the south west end, where they rise to a sublime height. The soil is generally poor; there are, however, some rich vallies. It has two fine harbours, Porto Ferrara, and Porto Longoni, with towns of the same name upon each of them.—Porto Ferrara on the north west side is the capital, and is as well built as any town of the same size that I have seen in Italy. The inhabitants were very kind to me, and are hospitable to strangers. The northern part of the island formerly belonged to the grand dukes of Tuscany; the other side to Naples, and was a place to which her convicts were sent. To this island also you may recollect it was that the great, but unfortunate Toussaint of St. Domingo, was to have been sent a prisoner, and by the man, who now brings this island into notice, by choosing it as the haven of repose when he is obliged to retire from the stormy ocean of empire. Sixteen of Toussaint's principal followers were sent here, with two of whom I became acquainted, and was strongly solicited to favor their escape.

It is needless to tell you that the climate is fine. The island produces a light red wine, some fruit, and salt for exportation, but in no considerable quantities. The iron mines of Elba are extensive, and have been wrought longer even than the story of them is known.—The island bore rather the marks of poverty; the roads were not in good repair, and in fact the island is too uneven to make much use of carriages of pleasure. It is the fine harbor of Porto Ferrara, and the natural strong position of the town, that makes this island desirable. In the hands of a power at war with the states of Italy, it would become a valuable depot. Many of the conscripts from Italy were brought here to be trained for the field of war.

The views from the island are grand. On the one hand is the coast of Italy as far to the northward as the mountains of Genoa; on the other, Corsica, with its lofty mountains relieves the eye from an uninterrupted expanse of an ocean view. Other small islands lie in the neighbourhood to diversify the scene.—To a mind fond of retirement, or solely bent on the pursuits of literature, Elba may become a pleasant residence; but to a mind accustomed to the noise of war or to the sweet blandishments of polished society, Elba with all its views, and all its charms, must appear but a more extended prison."

The following instance of singular fidelity, we copy from the Elizabethtown Patriot, which, with a small addition, we offer as a fact:

Many of the citizens of New-York must have noticed a black man who traverses the streets of the city with a hat under his arm, containing apparatus for shaving and hair cutting. Whatever the weather may be, his head is still uncovered. We once enquired the reason and were informed, that he had "in better times," been employed about the person of Louis 16th, and that during the horrors of the revolution, he became a voluntary exile. That he has supported himself by his calling, while from respect to the memory of the French King, he has constantly gone with the head uncovered, declaring his intention never to wear a hat until the restoration of the Bourbons. [Hearing of the arrival of a brig with the Bourbon flag, and being determined to satisfy himself, he went to the Battery, saw the flag, took his hat from under his arm, twirled it three times round, then put it on his head, and has worn it ever since.

[Ed. N. Y. Gaz.

We cannot contemplate the subject for a moment, without drawing a comparison between the unostentations fidelity of a menial, whose spirit is worthy a prince, and the moonshine patriots who turn with every breeze, sell their country and their conscience, and receive the honors due to merit only.

By the Steam-boat Paragon, which arrived at New York on Friday last from Albany, information is received, that the new frigate Mohawk, was launched at Sackett's Harbor on the 11th instant, and that Sir James Yeo had returned to Kingston with his fleet.—Poluson.

Extract of a letter, dated on board the U. S. ship Madison.

Sackett's Harbor, June 11.

"The British fleet have left us, and gone to Kingston, where we shall return their visit I hope in a short time, in a manner they will not like. The Superior is now complete and ready for sea. She is one of the finest vessels I ever saw. This day our frigate of 54 guns will be launched. When she is ready, we shall be complete, (to look for Sir James) which will not be long, as her rigging and guns are all here. By the 10th of July, you may begin to look out for hard knocks from this quarter. Part of the crew of the frigate Congress have arrived here."

Extract of a Letter from Washington City, to the editor, dated

"June 16, 1814.

"I have heard it stated from a source which I think may be relied on, that the British ministry have invited Mr. Gallatin to London; to shew his instructions, if authorised and inclined so to do; in order that an immediate negociation may be commenced, if the terms authorised by our government are such as can be acceded to on the part of G. Britain.

"Although some incline here to think this offer an evidence of a sincere wish on the part of the British government to remove all difficulties, and make a speedy adjustment of the existing differences; it is generally believed that the instructions to our commissioners give them very liberal and extensive powers to settle the matters in dispute; should the above information be correct, we may soon expect to hear of a cessation of hostilities."

TRAVELLING.

There are 17 different lines of Stages which start from this city every week; the total number departing each week, gives an average of 14 per day, and four steam boats. Supposing each stage to average 5 passengers, the number each day will be 70 or 420 per week. Add for the 4 steam boats 300 per week, and it gives an aggregate of 720 passengers, who enter and leave Albany every week, in stages and steam boats, or 37,420 in 1 year, exclusive of the vast number of strangers who travel thro' it in private carriages, on horseback, on foot, or who arrive and depart in sloops.

A passenger at N. York, travelling by way of Albany, may reach Utica, Hartford, (Ct.) or Brattleborough, (Vt.) 255 miles, in 48 hours; or may arrive at Burlington, Boston, or New Haven, (Ct.) 270 to 335 miles, in 72 hours from the time of his departure.

Extract of a letter from Paris, received by the French national brig Oliver.

"You have already heard of the great changes which have taken place here; nor will your surprize be diminished by knowing that the result has been, in a great degree, the result of accident.

"Napoleon had made an attempt to carry the position at Bar-sur-aube, which was held by the main army of the allies. In this he failed. His next endeavor was, to turn this position, and attack their magazines, if they pursued, to fall back on his fortifications, reinforce with their garrisons, and then give a general battle. Marmont, in the mean time defending Paris. He marched a whole day in prosecution of this plan before the allies was apprised of it. Hesitation followed on their part, when Alexander suggested a direct march upon Paris. The idea was adopted and executed; on the 30th of March, a battle was fought which decided the fate of the city, and of the war. Marmont commanded on one side, and Schwartzenburgh on the other. The firing began at 4 in the morning, and ended at the same hour in the afternoon, when Marmont entered into a convention to evacuate the city, & to take with him his troops, baggage, artillery, &c. No capitulation was made for the city, either by Marmont or others, but great care was taken to preserve it. If Marmont had been able to hold Paris as he thought he was, for 4 or even 2 days, Bonaparte would have been on the rear of the allies, and no doubt, still Emperor. The events which followed the capture of that city, made his continuance as such, impossible. The Emperor of Russia, King of Prussia, &c. entered Paris on the 31st of March. A constitutional act, was drawn up, and a provisional government declared, consisting of Talleyrand, Jaucourt, Montesquieu and Dalberg. At a subsequent session, Napoleon was deposed on the ground of his having violated the constitution, and the army and nation invited to unite in approving this act. So soon as these acts of the senate were known to the army, corps after corps declared against the Emperor, until he was left without other troops than the old guards and a few officers. He then abdicated in favor of the king of Rome his son, but that would not be accepted. He now negotiated for his own safety and independence; and in doing so he has become contemptible to all parties.

"The act, mentioned above, was adopted by the senate, and is made the basis of the restoration of the Bourbons. If Louis accepts and adheres honestly and fully, all will be well. If he does not accept, look for more storms. The Emperor of Russia and his army will not leave France till this business is settled. The French authority, at this moment, vests in Talleyrand. Arrangements with regard to Napoleon, Maria Louisa, and their son, have been made; the 1st goes to Elba; the 2d returns to her father; and the 3d retains his title for life, with the dutchess of Parma and Placentia in perpetuity; Murat keeps Naples; Beauharnois is to have the Dutchy of Frankfort; and old Josephine the title of Dutchess of Navarre. Other arrangements have been made; Antwerp is to be a free town; Belgium divided between France and Holland; Poland in its old extent, revived as a kingdom, and to have Alexander as their king; Sardinia to be given to the king of Sicily in lieu of Naples; Savoy to be added to France in lieu of part of Belgieum added to Holland; the kingdom of Italy to be kept entire, and to receive the Emperor of Austria as its king, &c.

"And what you will ask in this disposition of principalities and powers, becomes of the United States—her claims—her rights—her doctrines? Will she be invited to the general Congress? I answer—her claims on France, are in statu quo. Nothing has been done by Mr. Crawford; and what can be effected with the new government is problematical. Our rights and doctrines must be defended by ourselves. They excite no interest here or elsewhere in Europe; and, finally, you will NOT be invited to the general congress. Messrs. Bayard and Gallatin will cross over from Holland to England in the first week of this month (April.) No minister to Gottenburgh was appointed by the British government on the 1st. inst. Messrs. Russell and Clay have got to Sweden."

RAVAGES of the ENEMY!!!

A gentleman from Plymouth, states, that on Monday about 200 men, in 6 barges from a 74 and the Nimrod brig, came into Wareham, and set fire to 7 vessels, 3 or 4 of which were consumed. The others and a factory, which was likewise set on fire, were extinguished. On their first landing they took a number of Americans, whom they kept as hostages to guard against any resistance; and as they retreated, compelled 3 or 4 to stand up in each boat, until they was out of danger.

On Tuesday the militia from several towns were marching to that quarter, as well as a company of flying artillery from Plymouth. A deputation yesterday arrived in town to the Governor, requesting assistance.

THE FESTIVAL.

Yesterday was celebrated at the Stone Chapel a Religious Festival in commemoration of the overthrow of French Tyranny.—This was not a Festival to rejoice at the triumph of any particular sect of men, or the establishment of any individual opinions. It was the unfeigned thanksgiving of some of the greatest & best citizens of this great state, at the especial judgment of God, in unbinding the fetters of the whole world, and cutting up from its root that tremendous despotism, which was fast overspreading the whole world. It is out of our power to pourtray the feelings which actuated the vast assembly which were collected yesterday. No one, who was not present, can imagine what a fervor and patriotism, and religious zeal pervaded all who were assembled.

The musical performances have never been equalled in this town. There was a spirit of holy reverence and grateful rejoicing infused into the whole audience at the sublime Anthems of Handel. The Ode by L. M. Sargent, Esq. deserves particular observation, and it is bestowing high praise to say that it is executed in that gentleman's style.

The Prayers on the occasion, were wonderfully appropriate and devout. The pure and unaffected piety with which the thanksgivings to God for the deliverance of our own country, and the world from the "fangs of the roaring lion," were felt by the whole audience.

The selections from scripture by the Rev. Mr. Cary, were very judicious and applicable. It almost seemed that the Bible had expressly and personally doomed Bonaparte to the calamities which have befallen him.

The sermon by the Rev. Mr. Channing exceeded every thing that has been delivered within our remembrance. It would not be extravagant to pronounce it one of the most finished, pathetick and patriotick discourses ever witnessed by any audience in any country. Our praise cannot enhance its value, but we hope that the community will be favoured with this sermon in a few days, and be able to participate equally with those who heard it, of its sublime and powerful eloquence.

ALEXANDRIA, (Va.) June 18.

By a gentleman direct from the neighborhood of Barney's flotilla and the British squadron, who arrived here last evening, we have the most distressing accounts of the situation of the inhabitants of that section of Maryland—A brig of 12 guns and fifteen barges were as high up the Patuxent on Thursday as Benedict—the barges had progressed to Nottingham a considerable distance above Benedict. He states that a number of houses were burnt by them, and other enormities committed—among those were one belonging to Captain Mackall, and one to Mr. Broom. On crossing the ferry at a place called Pig Point yesterday morning, he distinctly saw the barges at Nottingham and smoke issuing from a house which he was told belonged to General Bowie, and it is probable the ...ole village is burnt. A Tobacco ...rehouse has been burnt by them on the ...Mary's side of the Patuxent con...ing a quantity of Tobacco. He rep...ents the distress of the citizens as ex...me—the woods and roads full of wo...n and children flying in all directions ...m their homes.—The British lay all ...night before last at Lower Marlbro'.

On Saturday last, this and the adjoin...ing counties, was visited by one of the most violent tornadoes, accompanied by hail of the most frightful size, that the country perhaps ever experienced. In a Paris paper of April 7, is an arti...cle signed Millard de Lescourt, major of artillery, in which it is stated, that about 9 o'clock on the evening of attack upon that capital, he received an order immediately to blow up the magazine at Gre...noble! which contained 240,000 pounds of powder, 50,000 infantry cartridges, 25,000 cannon cartridges, 3000 ball shells loaded, and a great quantity of rockets. From the (Chillicothe) FREDONIAN, June 21, 1814.

The express mail from Detroit arriv...ed yesterday morning. The following extracts of letters to the editor, contain the latest intelligence from that quarter:

"Rapids of the River St. Clair, May 31st, 1814.

"On the 11th inst. I removed from Sandwich, and started for this place un...der command of Capt. C. Gratiot of the engineers, with a detachment of regulars and French workmen, whose object was to build a fort at the exit of the river St. Clair from lake Huron; which, from its situation is and will be a most important post. After a tedious wet and cold jour...ney of six days we arrived here, and im...mediately commenced building a fort on the east side of the river (in Michigan.) On or about the 25th inst. a regiment of Ohio militia under Col. Cotgreave arriv...ed here; and from this accession we ex...pect our work to be completed in ten or twelve days."

"Detroit, June 5th, 1814.

"One of our gun-boats, the Scorpion, arrived here last evening from Erie: one or two more are expected to-morrow or the next day. The British have recom...menced the scalping system. A few days ago two brothers, Canadians, work...ing in their fields, 22 miles from this place, were shot and scalped by two Bri...tish Indians. The Brownstown and ma...ny other Indians, after being fed by us all winter, have in the spring got tired of our company, crossed the river and gone over to the enemy. Appearances indicate that we shall meet with inter...ruptions from the savages during the summer. You have already heard my opinion how far they can affect us, pro...vided we have a competent force in the neighbourhood. But at this time we are rather deficient; as the 12 months men are discharged, and have been leaving this for weeks past. This deficiency should immediately be supplied by the troops now in the interior; or else much mischief may be apprehended."

EXTRACTS.

Taxes ought to be regulated accord...ing to the real exigencies of the govern...ment, and the convenience of the people. But the exigencies of the government should never be measured by the ambi...tion, caprice, or passions of those who have the direction of public affairs; nor of the people themselves, in those mo...mentary paroxisms of rage, or of vanity to which they are sometimes stirred up by their demagogues. The democratic mass are often not less apt than princes, to be seduced by an imaginary glory, and often excited by a sudden impulse of pas...sion, to pursue expensive schemes, that flatter the national vanity for a while, but in the end draw after them poverty and ruin.

Commerce consists in the exchange of the products, or the labor of one coun...try for those of another. It is founded on the mutual wants of mankind, real or factitious, and is ready always to furnish a supply for those wants which it either finds or creates, By affording a vent for the produce of labor, and procuring, in return, the means of desirable accommo...dation, it increases industry, promotes the arts, and thereby augments the wealth of a state. Commerce is the handmaid of agriculture, and the arts, and by dis...tributing their productions over the world prompts the industry of the husbandman, and quickens the ingenuity of the artisan.

Civil liberty is absolutely necessary to the existence of a flourishing commerce. Freedom is the nurse of industry and en...terprise; and in the bosom of liberty alone is the property of the merchant, at all times, sufficiently secure from the grasp of power. In absolute monarchies, the humble and industrious occupations of the merchant are held in contempt by the superior orders of society. But un...der the protection of a free government, merchants have been found capable of the grandest enterprises.

Commerce ought to be as free as the ocean on which it is borne, or the winds which waft it. The interest of merchants will always find the most profitable chan...nels of trade better than the foresight of the legislator.

Attacking and plundering, by privat... vessels of war, the peaceable merchants of an enemy nation, pursuing their cus...tomary and innocent traffic, ought to be condemned. Acts of this kind tend to involve individuals in distress and ruin, but contribute little or nothing to impair the public force of the enemy, or to de...termine the issue of the war. Some at...tempts have, within a few years, been made by different persons to limit, or put an end to this odious and iniquitous practice: but those generous nations have not yet been able to accomplish their humane and equitable purposes.—And privateering, which, in its princi...ples, is nothing less than the most cruel and unjust species of PLUNDER and ROB...BERY, still remains, under a few limita...tions as to the precautions and forms ne...cessary in commissioning vessels, and condemning prizes, the reproach of the policy and humanity of modern times.

All acts by which a state endeavors to revenge on innocent and unoffending in...dividuals the injustice of their govern...ment, is equally iniquitous and impolitic Therefore, confiscating, or sequestrat...ing the property which foreigners may hold in its public funds, or in the hands of private debtors, or seizing on the ves...sels of their merchants which may be in its harbors at the commencement of a war, instead of being a justifiable mean of offence, is a shameful violation of na...tional faith and honor. These funds were deposited, these debts were con...tracted, and these vessels entered its harbors under the protection of its laws; and surely those laws cannot, either with good faith, or in good policy, be made a decoy for innocent foreigners, who have honored it by confiding in its integrity and justice.

Newport, May 23, 1814

Gentlemen—I have examined two views of the action on Lake Erie, drawn by Mr. Sully and Mr. Kearney, from information given them by the commanding officers of the American vessels on Erie. I have no hesitation in pro...nouncing them a correct representation of the engagement at those particular moments.

Wishing that your pecuniary success may equal your exertions in obtaining correct in...formation of that battle.

I am, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

O. H. PERRY.

THE TOWN OF

HARMONY,

With all its Improvements, and about 9000 Acres of LAND adjoining—on which are THREE VILLAGES, in the tenure of GEORGE RAPP and Associates,

IS OFFERED FOR SALE.

HARMONY—Is situated on either banks of the Conaquenessing, But...ler County, Pennsylvania, 25 miles west of north from Pittsburgh, and 11 miles from the Ohio river, and contains abou 130 buildings and lots of ground, a num...ber of which are brick, some frame, and the rest log. The principal buildings are, the tavern house, of stone and brick, 54 by 32 feet, containing 12 convenient apartments, with kitchen, cellar, garden, and good stabling; a store house of brick 42 by 32 feet, with an arched cellar; a brick house for spinning and weaving, 56 by 40 feet, with a cellar under the whole; a brick house opposite the Tavern, 44 by 33 feet, with an arched Cellar—a Brick House on the adjoining Lot, 45 by 30 feet, with a Cellar—a Brick House op...posite the Store, 44 by 30 feet, a cellar under the whole—a Brick House for Carding and Spinning, 50 by 40 feet, with a Cellar—a large commodious Brick House for shearing and finishing Cloth—a Brick House calculated in the best manner for Dying—two Brick Houses, 40 by 30 feet each—a Dwelling House, Brick and Frame, 50 by 30 feet—a Brick Church, 75 by 45 feet. Besides several other Brick and frame dwelling Houses, there are a number of Buildings for dif...ferent uses.

A Frame Granary, 80 by 40 feet, with 4 floors and machinery, well adapted to the design of the building.

Two Distilleries, one Brick, the other Stone, each calculated to distill by steam 18 bushels grain per day.

Two Grist Mills, one first rate, on Big Conaquenessing, with one set of burrs, the other a pair of common stones—a Fulling Mill, and convenient rooms for two sets of Wool Carding Machines, at...tached to it. The other Grist Mill is si...tuated on a run with two pair of common stones—an Oil Mill on Little Conaque...nessing, together with a Fulling and Hemp Mill, and one set of cotton car...ding machines—Two saw mills—a large convenient Tanyard, with suitable im...provements—a Brickyard—Potash Fac...tory—Rope Walk—Brewery—a Smith Shop with 4 hearths—a Nail Factory—Buildings suited to almost every branch of Mechanism, and the Town well sup...plied with water, having 10 Wells with Pumps, besides 3 springs.

There is in the Town of Harmony 4 large Barns with Stables underneath, and on the Premises 7 large Sheep Stables, that will hold 3000 Sheep.

Adjacent to Harmony, and on the Pre...mises, are Three Villages. The first is Ramsdale, half a mile north, contain...ing about 20 Log Buildings, with con...venient Barns and Stables. The second is Edenau, one mile and an half east, containing about the same number of Houses, Barns and Stables. The third is Oilbronn, two miles north, 8 or 10 hou...ses with Barns and Stables; besides se...veral other single Farms with necessary Buildings and very handsome Improve...ments.

There is of the whole quantity of Land about 3000 acres remarkably well impro...ved, and durably fenced; at least 500 acres of which are Meadow, and of the first quality.

There are two principal Orchards, containing about 2000 bearing Apple Trees, besides smaller ones in differ...ent parts of the farms.

Two vineyards, one of 10, the other of 5 acres, have given sufficient proof of the successes in the cultivation of vines; they are made after the European manner, at a vast expence of labor, with parapet walls and stone steps conducting to an eminence overlooking the town of Har...mony and its surrounding Improve...ments.

There has been supported from the improvements and produce of Harmony annually 3000 sheep, 600 horned cattle & a number of horses, besides the grain to feed the distilleries, and still affording large supplies to the country.

There are quarries of good Limestone, building stone and stone coal, and good timber for building & other uses abound...ding throughout the improved land.

The Soil—the most extensive part of it is of the first quality, on which are a number of good sugar camps, the situa...tion level and rounding so as to form an agreeable variety of surface.

The man of capital who may wish to purchase will, upon viewing Harmony & its improvements, at once discover that he cannot be better suited for the pur...pose of farming, manufacturing & every branch of mechanism.

Should no person or persons be incli...ned to purchase the whole property on or before the 1st day of Oct. next, it will be then divided and sold in such lots and parcels as may suit purchasers.

The titles to all the above described property are indisputable. Possession will be delivered on the 1st of April next, and the terms made known by applica...tion to the subscriber residing at Harmo...ny, Butler county.

DOCTOR HANDY'S,

WORM DESTROYING

LOZENGES,

A safe and efficacious Medicine for destroying and bringing away

WORMS.

MAY be used with safety by children of any age, or as common physic by the most delicate constitution, in any climate, without restraint of diet, or the smallest danger from cold. It may be given with advantage after the small-pox or measles; or as a family medicine, in any case where physic is necessary. The most frequent seat of worms in the human body, is the intestinal tube; but occasionally they have been found in almost every other part of the body.

Some very extraordinary cases of Worms, of an unusual form and appearance, being brought away by these Lozenges, have been made public in England, where the rapid sale of the medicine has exceeded any thing of the kind ever known before; and has also proved, to a demonstration, its approved superiority, as an athelminthick, to the numerous puffed-up, useless nostrums, which are daily advertised in the newspapers.

A single dose of this valuable Medicine has often been known to remove half a pot-full of the Teres or Round Worms.

A few doses are generally sufficient to remove the Ascarides, a small white worm, the seat of which is either the stomach or rectum.

Even the Tape Worm, at all times the most difficult to destroy, may, by persevering in the frequent use of this medicine, be totally removed in the course of a few weeks.

To select cases, with the names of people who are not known here, and living at a great distance, would be useless and take up too much of the reader's time. We shall therefore only observe, for the benefit of those who are unacquainted with the symptoms of worms, that they are known or suspected to exist by a pain in the stomach, attended with a sudden depression of spirits before eating; at other times, the belly is hard, painful and distended with wind—costiveness, head-ache, and trembling of the limbs, with a sense of something rising in the throat—pale complexion and emaciated body, with weakness and irregular appetite—convulsive, epileptic, or falling fits—pains in the back and side, and frequent itching of the nose, and sometimes of the anus. The above, and a long train of afflicting diseases may all be occasioned by worms, which are much oftener the cause of death than is commonly believed.

The above valuable Medicine is sold only by

J. P. & J. W. SKELTON,

at their wholesale and retail Drug Store, at the corner of Wood and Third Streets, Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, May 20, 1813.

Doctor CHISHOLM'S

Anti-Bilious Pills,

OF A QUALITY

Superior to any thing of the kind ever offered as a

GENERAL MEDICINE,

IN THIS COUNTRY,

Now prepared from a recipe of the celebrated Dr Chisholm, who, from a long residence in the West-India islands, has been enabled to favor the world with the most complete history, and most approved methods of curing all the BILIOUS DISEASES of those warm climates.

This extraordinary medicine, which now for the first time is finding its way into general practice, has properties in the highest degree superior to the mercurial nostrums so frequently recommended by the name of Anti-Bilious Pills. The extraordinary powers of this medicine as a solvent and evacuant of bile, is without example; never producing debility, or injuring the health, in the smallest degree, of the most delicate child, or weakly female.

The BILIOUS HEAD-ACHE, so much complained of in this country, and in the neighbourhood of rivers, is often removed by a single dose, which, to a strong man, is only five pills, and to a weakly woman, three. The same dose will generally remove the most excruciating pains of the cholic, like a charm, by abusing the bile to pass downwards in the course of an hour or two.

Two or three Pills taken an hour before dinner, and repeated every third day, will effectually remove those diseases arising from flatulency and indigestion, and by persevering in the use of them for a considerable time, the appetite will be improved, and strength and vigor will return.

Two Pills taken at bed time, with a cup of penny-royal tea, and repeated every second night, will effectually remove Rheumatic pains, wherever seated.

A single Pill, taken every fourth hour with a cup of flax-seed tea, will cure Pleurisy, promote expectoration, and relieve coughs and colds.

In CONSUMPTIVE CASES and diseases of the liver, no medicine ever yet discovered, has been known to perform such cures. Two Pills, taken every third morning, will be found sufficient, unless costiveness prevails; in which case, the dose may be increased according to the strength or constitution.

The Dysentery, Croup, and Summer Complaint on children, are soon relieved by a few doses. A single Pill to a child of 6 years old, and the dose increased according to their strength and age.

In Asthmatic or Phthisical cases, where the laborious breathing and great oppression, with faintings, are fast sinking the patient to the brink of the grave, a few Pills, taking one every hour, with fennel or pepper-mint tea, will often enable the patient to walk about in a few hours.

The above valuable Medicine is Sold ONLY in Pittsburgh, by

J. P. & J. W. Skelton,

At their Wholesale and Retail Apothecary and Drug Store.

BRIGHTON IRON WORKS

FOR SALE.

THIS elegant establishment consists of a Furnace, Forge, Grist and Saw Mill, together with extensive Coal, Store and Dwelling Houses, situate at the middle falls of Big Beaver creek, one mile from navigable water, 3 miles from the Ohio, 3 miles from the town of Beaver, and 28 miles from Pittsburgh. The Grist and Saw Mill are now usefully employed, and can be made very productive at a small expence. The Furnace and Forge are equal to any in the western country. The scite for water works comprises advantages equal if not superior to any on the Brandywine. The adjacent country abounds with ore, fuel and provisions, and the facility of transportation by water from the works to every part of the western country promises a sure and steady market for all its productions. The works are well supplied with first rate forge and furnace hands. The forge is now in operation, and the usual number of hands and teams are constantly employed in providing stock for a new blast, which it is intended shall take place about the 1st of March next, whether sold or not. The casting house is spacious and well supplied with flasks, patterns, and other requisite articles.—Possession can be given either before or after the first of March, as may be agreed upon, a fair price being given for the stock on hand.

ALSO FOR SALE.

A valuable Tract of Land on the east side of the creek, opposite the Iron Works, affording a scite for water works equal to any on the creek, on which is erected a Grist Mill and two Dwelling Houses, and a small Farm opened.—The whole of this property will be sold together or separate as may best suit the purchaser, and the terms made easy.
